Well-known Old-Timer Passes; One Of Districts Earliest Residents

LAC LA BICHE—Another old-timer of the Lac la Biche district in the person of Frederick Pruden passed away at his home here on Thursday morning, April 9th. Mr. Pruden was born in this district on July 26th, 1874.

He was married to Adelaide Huppie and from that union ten children were born but four pre-deceased their father. Remaining members of the family are his wife and six children, Frederick, Ernest and Larry, all of Lac la Biche, and also Florence, Mrs. L. Schmalzbauer, Hoozier, Sask.; Rose Mrs. L. Gauthier, Peace River, and Louise, Mrs. J. Ray of Lac la Biche.

The funeral was held in St. Catherine's Church, Lac la Biche, on Saturday, April 11. Rev. J. E. McGrane officiating.

Actually the Prudens lived in what is now called Grandin, a few miles south of the Town of Lac la Biche. For about thirty years the post office was established in their home but in 1945 Mr. Pruden retired and the family moved into Lac la Biche. It is of interest to note that Mr. Pruden was the son of John Pruden, who in turn was the son of the Hudson's Bay clerk, Patrick Pruden, who came from Edmonton, England, and it is generally accepted that it was Patrick Pruden who gave the Fire Razes St. Gabriel's Historic Athabasca Church

ATHABASCA—Flames destroyed one of Athabasca's most famous landmarks last Thursday morning, when historic St. Gabriel's Church was burned.

About 3:00 a.m., Father Galbreath was roused by the crackling flames of the fire. The alarm called the volunteer brigade who tried in vain to save the wooden structure but the flames quickly engulfed the whole building. Efforts were then concentrated on saving adjoining buildings used for dwelling places.

The rapid spread of the flames prevented anyone from entering the building to save any of the contents which were completely destroyed.

A new organ, recently installed was one of the many interior furnishings that were lost.

Built in 1905, St. Gabriel's Church was a familiar landmark to many people who passed through Athabasca Landing.

Students Visit Many Places Of Interest

COLINTON — On March 27, the grade nine and ten classes motored by car to Edmonton on an educational tour. Their first stop was the Victoria Composite High School, where they saw an extremely modern school in operation. The guide, Mr. Anderson, showed them the highlights of the school. The swimming pool, equipped with flood lights; diving board, and up-to-date purifying system, was very inviting. The auditorium, having a seating capacity of 750, has one of the best equipped stages in Canada. Some of the classes visited were: automotive, sheet metal, arts and craft, biology, dress and fabric, and a home economic class of boys. One thousand four hundred students attend day classes which are taught by 63 teachers. In the evening some 1,700 students take classes, some of which are new Canadians being taught basic English.

After leaving this modern educational institution, the tour continued out to the BA oil refinery, where Alberta's crude oil is made into finished products. The oil is piped directly from the producing fields and not usually stored at the plant. The large tanks at the refinery are storage tanks for the finished products. The catalyst used to decompose the crude oils is fine clay. Perhaps the most interesting part of the plant was the control room where every process of oil refining is registered and recorded automatically. From here they returned to the city for a noon lunch, and then walked to Radio Station CFRN, where Miss MacDonald explained the operations of a modern broadcasting station. This station began in 1934 as CFTP and owned by Taylor and Pearson. CJCA was then owned by Mr. Rice. Some time later, Rice and Nelson purchased CFTP and Taylor and Pearson bought CJCA. CFTP was changed to CFRN. R N standing for Rice and Nelson. The newsroom of the station, where the teletype machine automatically record the news of the world, was very interesting. The record library contains 90,000 records. The more modern method of recording is by tape recording. This is much cheaper and takes less room to store. It was pointed out that to be a radio announcer one had to have very good command of English and a wide general background.

The next point of interest was the legislature, the seat of the provincial government. After touring the building in general, the group was escorted to the visitors' gallery where they witnessed the government in session. The session opened by the entrance of the Sergeant-in-Arms carrying the mace. The speaker, Mr. Dawson, then read a prayer, and a spirited debate between the members on several business issues was witnessed. When the session adjourned, the tour extended to the University of Alberta.

Following a general introduction and view of the campus, a visit to the Rutherford Library was made. This library was named after Mr. Rutherford, Alberta's first premier, who donated his private collection of books to the library. From here they went to the Medical Building where students studying medicine and dentistry are trained. After a brief stop at the Students' Union Building, a drive around the campus to view the residences, the Aberhart Memorial Sanatorium, and the Education Building, finished the tour.

The group arrived home at 10 in the evening, and although all were tired, everyone agreed it was an interesting and worthwhile tour.

Wants Continuation Of CBC Controls

By L. W. Newcombe

In his closing address on the budget, Mr. Manning speaking on the $50,000 appropriation, used these words, "This appropriation for agricultural broadcasts, certainly is not going to be used in the same manner as the C.B.C. The C.B.C. has been primarily, as far as its so-called free service is concerned, a political propaganda organ for the government of Canada." A more flagrant "disregard of truth or fairness" can hardly be imagined, but coming from the Premier, such words are inexcusable.

Mr. Manning knows well that the C.B.C. has been most fair in apportioning its free time for election broadcasts, justly and impartially and after full consultation and agreement with the leaders of the different political parties. The regulations state (2) "Each station shall allocate time for political broadcasts as fairly as possible between the different parties or candidate desiring to purchase or obtain time for such broadcasts". The Corporation insists that all stations carry out this policy.

If Mr. Manning refers to the different commentators used on the C.B.C. then he is a non-listener, or, wilfully perverting the facts. The panel of speakers are of the best available and are permitted free and independent expression of facts or opinions as they see them. On Sunday James Minifie, Woodworth, McGeachy, etc. Other times we hear, Kenneth Harris, Geo. Ferguson, Paul Hoffman, Harvey Dickie, Matthew Halton, Basil Dean, Burton Keirstead, Michael Barkway, Baldwin, and so on. Sometimes we do not agree with their conclusions, but at least with the C.B.C. we are not denied the hearing of speakers of different views. Regarding this, the regulations state, (7) "It is not the intention of the Corporation to restrict freedom of speech, nor the fair presentation of controversial material. On the contrary the policy is to encourage the fair presentation of controversial questions".

Radio and Television have become important educational agencies, perhaps equal to the schools in some respects and certainly most Canadians prefer, and are concerned that they be kept under public control and as free from commercial or advertisers control as possible. We have observed how the American people have been led around to their hurt by the abuse of this modern discovery. The 242 air channels set aside, in the U.S. for education, out of the 2000 are mostly unused because television is developed to make money for the sponsors and not as a public service. The present attempt to limit the authority and work of the C.B.C. if successful must inevitably lower the high standards set by our own institution in the interests of the moneychangers who would exploit the air waves for private gain. The people of Canada will stand firm against any moves of this kind.

ALBERTA TO GET CANADA'S FIRST GAS TURBINE

From the head office of Canadian Utilities in Edmonton, Mr. R. Nurse, Superintendent of Production, announces the placing of an order for a 7,000 K.W. gas turbine electric generating unit at a cost of approximately Five Hundred and Sixty Thousand Dollars ($560,000.00) for installation at Vermilion where the present natural gas fired steam plant is located. By this provision, the over-all capacity of this plant will be almost doubled.

The Vermilion plant is the central source of supply for the Vegreville district of the Company, extending from west of Vegreville to the Saskatchewan boundary and as far north as Cold Lake. Within this district, service is furnished to 61 urban communities, 3 oil fields and 24 rural electrification districts. There is a steadily increasing demand for more energy from all these sources, particularly from the oil industry and the rural section. In addition to this, the Company is being called on to supply the extensive electrical requirements of the large project of the Department of National Defence at Cold Lake on the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary.

The gas turbine is a mechanical device, and in its simplest form consists of a compressor, a combustion chamber and a turbine, the compressor and the turbine being connected together on one shaft. The compressor draws in air and compresses it to about 75 lbs. per square inch and forces this air into the combustion chamber where it is mixed with a fuel such as oil or natural gas. Here it is ignited and burns with a continuous flame to raise the temperature of the air leaving the combustion chamber to approximately 1200 degrees F. This highly heated air has expanded and has increased in volume several times. It then travels at high velocity through the blades of a turbine, causing the whole assembly to rotate, thereby supplying power in the form of a rotating shaft. The shaft can then be connected direct to its load which, in this particular case, is an electric generator. Other forms of load to which these turbines are connected are pumps, other compressors, propellers aboard ships, railroad locomotives, generators and so forth.

The engineering studies on the development of the gas turbine have covered a period considerably in excess of 20 years. What was being sought was the production of power directly from the introduction of fuel, in a simpler form than an internal combustion engine or the steam engine or steam turbine with gas or fuel oil fired boilers. In all the planning the main objective was to arrive at a plant, simple in design and construction, where maintenance and operating costs would be materially reduced.

One of the nearest approaches to the gas turbine generally known today is the turbo-jet aircraft engine which actually sprang from the principles of the earlier gas turbines and was developed during World War II. Certain basic principles are common to both of these, but the end results looked for were different. For industrial application, the power must be transmitted through a shaft; with the airplane, it is simply a matter of power thrust against the resistance of the atmosphere.

When this gas turbine is placed in service in the summer of 1954 with an estimated overall cost of $620,000.00, it will be the first of its kind to be installed in Canada. While this is true, the gas turbine for electrical generation is well past the experimental stage. Several units have been installed in the Eastern and Western Hemispheres and some of these have been in operation long enough to demonstrate the advantages of the new technique and its economy and reliability in operation.

Some of these established advantages compared with other types of thermal plants are: little or no cooling water is required; they are compact and thus require smaller housing accommodation; they can be placed in service rapidly; they are much simpler than either the conventional steam turbine or the internal combustion engine and finally their cost is generally lower than other types of thermal plants of a like capacity. However, their loading must be kept high to be economical.

Prominent in research work leading up to the development and application of this new prime mover to duties such as the generation of electric energy has been the firm of Brown-Boveri Limited in Switzerland. As a result of their outstanding success in the field, it is appropriate that Canadian Utilities' order for the new 7000 K.W. unit should be placed through Brown-Boveri Canada Limited.

This company recently opened a plant near Montreal where electrical equipment will be manufactured. This particular 7000 K.W. installation will, however, be manufactured at the parent plant in Switzerland.

SHOOTS AT DEER, KILLS FATHER

CROSS CITY, FLA. — Seeing a deer's antlers through the brush, Bob Rosier, 23, let loose with his rifle. The shot killed his father, W. H. Rosier, 51, of Gainesville, Fla. Rosier had just shot the animal himself and was bending over to cut its throat when his son, sighting the antlers, also shot.

PUBLIC BUBBLE BATH

LONDON — A prankster turned Trafalgar Square's famous fountain at the foot of Nelson's Column into a frothy bubble bath—to the delight of passers-by but the consternation of public officials. The joker poured detergent into strategic spots around the pool and water from the fountainheads churned it into snowy lather.

We have lived in the city for a few years now and it has been my task to pay our gas bill many times. Nearly every time I have paid it at the main office rather than the bank. Last week I was down town, quite busy, when I decided to pay this bill. I rushed into the Civic Block and stood in line for about five minutes, rather impatient at the delay. Finally when I arrived at the wicket the clerk looked at my bill and said, "I'm sorry, you don't pay this here but you must go to Northwestern Utilities on 104th St." I guess the people there must have thought I had just arrived in the city. Did I ever feel foolish! I.E.H.

North Edmonton.

I was clerking in the dress department in a large store while a big sale was in progress. People were milling around bumping each other and there wasn't a foot of floor space to spare. I swung around quickly and slammed hard into a feminine figure—grabbed the poor thing with both hands and began apologizing profusely. It turned out to be a dummy, and a good many customers got quite a kick out of my embarrassing moment.

Watch That Tractor

The farm tractor is a killer! Without doubt the most dangerous item on the farm is the tractor. Practically every week someone in Alberta is crushed beneath the wheels, pinned under the upturned frame or wound around a pulley or shaft of this streamlined giant. In most cases the cause of the accident is carelessness — a lack of appreciation of the tremendous power that can wreak havoc as easily as it performs miracles.

Ten simple steps to greater life expectancy for the tractor driver are offered here by C. A. Cheshire, Extension Agricultural Engineer, Alberta Department of Agriculture. If applied, they will go far towards reducing tractor accidents.

1. Don't let children drive a tractor. A child too young to handle a twelve horse team shouldn't be asked, or allowed to handle a twenty or thirty horse outfit that doesn't even have horse sense.
2. Don't allow riders on the tractor. There is only room for one person on the seat. No one else should be riding on the machine.
3. Don't hitch a tractor too high — the point of pull should always be below the back axle. On hilly or uneven land it must be lower than on flat, level land.
4. Don't wear ties, or loose or ragged clothing around a tractor.
5. Don't try to operate clutches from the ground.
6. Apply and lock wheel brakes, and leave the tractor stopped and in gear if you have to stop on a grade.
7. Keep away from soft ditch banks and road shoulders.
8. Stop the engine when refueling the tractor.
9. Never drive a tractor when weary. Relax, or even take a nap for a few minutes if you start to feel drowsy.
10. Slow down. The combination of road gear and steering brakes acts too fast for human reflexes.

Eggs and Spots

(Toronto, Saturday Night)

There is something very puzzling about eggs. Not so long ago we kept a flock of hens, for our own use, for amusement and we hoped, for a little profit. It was an educational experience, if not so amusing as we had expected; we soon learned that hens lay all sorts of eggs other than Grade A Large, and that eggs which have slight flaws like blood spots in them are called "rots." We did not get the rots back from the grader, and we were not paid for them because it was said they could not be sold.

The other morning our breakfast menu was changed because the last two eggs in a carton marked Grade A had huge blood spots in them. There is always the possibility, of course, that those eggs had been inspected by a grader in the throes of a hangover; but we can't help wondering what really happened to those rots for which we never collected any cash.

Note and Comment

The wheat crop in the Union of South Africa in 1952 totalled 19 million bushels compared with 25½ million in 1951. About 11 million bushels will have to be imported to supply the domestic demand.

The faithful horse, which for years was the source of draft power on Canadian farms, is fast disappearing therefrom. The decline in horse numbers on these farms in the past 28 years totals 2,644,200.

Foods worth about $700 per United States farmer are exported from that country each year. They include 55 per cent of the total rice production, 45 per cent of wheat, 35 per cent of cotton, 20 per cent of tobacco, 20 per cent of lard and 15 per cent of soybeans.

Canadian sales of wheat under the International Wheat Agreement totalled 154.5 million bushels in the first seven months of the 1952-53 crop year. Among the major buyers were the United Kingdom with 54.8 million bushels, Belgium with 13 million, India with 11.2 million and Italy with 11 million.

The Wild Horse Roundup

By SENATOR F. W. GERSHAW

For centuries the fox hunt has been the big sporting event of the season for British people. Songs, pictures and stories have given everyone a knowledge of what it involved in the way of preparation and skilful horsemanship. Although not so colorful, the wild horse roundup calls for even more hard riding and endurance.

Bands of non-tamed horses are found in the remote hills of Southern Alberta and the Northern States. They are as wild as deer, and because they consume much valuable grass, the stockmen from time to time make an attempt to get rid of them. They do this by rounding them up, selling any of them if they can and shipping the remainder to a fox-meat factory at $3.00 per head.

These untamed animals are swift and wily. When pursued, they will circle and hide. They break up into two or more herds and run in different directions. In a rough country, the riders may not see the outlaws for long intervals. They will only hear the thuds and clicks of the hooves on the stones. They must follow the hoof marks through bad lands and, at times, a strip of riley water in a clear running stream alone indicates their nearness.

On the day of the drive, riders will go around the area of the feeding grounds and, at sunrise, take positions on the crest of a high hill. At a signal, they will start downward through the thick scrub where there are rocks and fallen trees but no trails. They will have difficulty in locating the wild herd but if they persist they will come upon the leader of the band. There will be no mistaking him for a domestic horse. His mane will be long, falling over his face and down to his knees. He will be standing with head erect sniffing the breeze and will make a magnificent picture. This stallion will give a signal and then dash through the bush, followed by the mares and colts. If an open space is found, the leader will run along with his head down like a hound dog following a scent.

The chase will continue over creek and swamp, down hills and over open spaces at a killing pace for the riders. Sometimes the position of the herd will only be located by a cloud of dust like a waterspout over a quiet sea.

After five or six miles another group of riders will take over and finally the exhausted animals will be guided into pens, perhaps at a shipping point.

It is a brutal sight to see, say, 200 of these graceful animals in a pen—the stallions in their fury will fight and strike at each other. In the general melee, many of the colts are wounded and trampled to death. The frantic mares whinnie and mill around, hoping to get their young ones out of the fighting mass.

Armed with quirts, sticks and poles, men on the rails of pens shout and whack the panic-stricken animals into the cars. When then pens are empty, the job is done. The riders return to camp unmindful of what happens to the captives in the cars.

Order Chicks Now

Order chicks early and order early chicks, advises F. J. Higginson, Acting Poultry Commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Early chicks make the most economical gains and come into production at a suitable date, he says. They are likely to produce a greater number of eggs during the season when the price is attractive.

Farmers who think they can go into a hatchery and buy chicks at any time may be disappointed. As a result of previous experience hatcherymen are playing safe this year and keeping their settings pretty well on a level with orders received. Reports indicate approximately 200,000 eggs less in Alberta machines this year than at the same date last year. Avoid disappointment by ordering your chicks without delay, Mr. Higginson advises.

The Bible Today

... And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them. And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken: and immediately all the doors were opened, and everyone's bands were loosed. And the keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep, and seeing the prison doors open, he drew out his sword, and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fled. But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thyself no harm: for we are all here. Then he called for a light, and sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas, and brought them out and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved? And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house. And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house. And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, and he and all his, straightway. And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and rejoiced, believing in God with all his house.

ANSWER TO "TAP ROOT"

I will answer a few things which you had in your letter.

We have two very fine clubs organized in our district, but will the people join them?—No! They are either too busy and tired after looking after two or three children, or can't take time away from the beer parlor, or it may cost them a dime or so to join.

As for coming to church, well they will come if we serve lunch after, but if not they haven't time.

And we also have a few who go around and run our church and clubs down, so that new members don't know whether to come or not.

Wouldn't our fashion shows be lovely when most of us have size 36 waists? Of course there are a few who think they still look like high school girls.

So come on folks, make a success of the clubs we have and most people will like and respect us.

FATTY

CONVERTIBILITY OF MONEY

A great deal of talk is going on about the convertibility of the Pound Sterling. All agree that if only the Pound Sterling were convertible into American dollars that Britain could do much more trade. But some are frightened that Britain does not have enough reserves in gold or American dollars to support the pound in case big demands were suddenly made upon her, and they consider that Britain had better wait until tariffs come down in the United States and Canada and other countries so that British trade can increase.

The reply is that if we wait as long as that it will be generations before the pound is convertible, and that during the interval the world will lose its faith in the pound and will join the dollar block.

It is asserted that if Britain will only take a chance to free the pound that she would do so much more business the world over that countries like the United States and Canada would then, in self-defence, be obliged to lower their tariffs; that Britain's prosperity was built up because Britain and her merchants took chances, and that now is the time to take bold, seasoned, chances again.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I am a spinster and live alone. I have a small yard but a very pretty one. I enjoy working in it and am very proud of the way it looks.

Just recently a family has moved in next to me with four children. They jump over the hedge into my yard, break down my flowers and climb my trees. What can I do? The parents seem to be nice people but never seem to think their children are misbehaving.

Answer:

With all the playground space available, nowadays, there is no excuse for people letting their children run wild over their neighbors' territory. If they haven't the space for their children to play in, they should see that they take advantage of the public playgrounds.

It is certainly discouraging to plan and work in a garden and have it wrecked by children who haven't been taught to respect other people's belongings.

Have a quiet talk with the children first and if that doesn't help ask the parents to keep them in their own yard.

Louisa.

Dear Louisa:

I hope you can help me. I am single and was going with a girl I really loved. I lost her but I still have hopes she will come to me some day and see that I was her friend.

I lost her through a married man telling her things about me. I wrote to her different times and tried to tell her that this man was only making trouble between us but she didn't answer my letters.

I still have her picture and I haven't given this girl up yet. I see other girls but I don't bother going out with them because I love this girl.

Do you think I ought to send her picture back and try to forget her? What do you think I should do?

Broken Hearted Dan

G.L.

Answer:

Well, Dan, if I were in your place I think I would make an effort to see this girl and explain my position to her. I think you can do more by seeing her than by writing to her.

I don't know what the man could have told about you but she is certainly not treating you right by not letting you defend yourself.

I think you are making a mistake, however, by not going out with other girls if she keeps on acting this way. There is a possibility that she was tired of going with you and is just using these tales as an excuse to break off with you.

If she refuses to hear your side of the question, I think you will be wise to return her picture and try to forget her.

CANCER CRUSADE LAUNCHED IN ALBERTA; PROV. QUOTA $200,000

A drive to raise $1,500,000 throughout Canada to fight cancer was launched this week in Alberta.

The announcement was accompanied by a statement from G.R.A. Rice of Edmonton, President of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Cancer Society and a message from Society Provincial officials.

"The key to success in fighting cancer," Mr. Rice said, "is the volunteer worker. On the eve of this Crusade I want to pay tribute to the volunteers in this community who will shoulder the task of raising funds and informing people how they can best guard against cancer.

The entire programme of cancer control hinges on their work. If it were not for their efforts there would be no national half-million dollar research programme; there would be no service programme for cancer patients and there certainly would be no chance of people getting the life-saving facts about detecting and curing early cancer.

We have been assigned a goal of $200,000 as our share in the National Campaign. I want to make sure everyone realizes that this is a minimum figure. We can, with a quota, I am sure that all the residents of this community will join me in this objective."

From the Provincial headquarters of the Canadian Cancer Society came a message praising the local branch for its prompt start in the Campaign.

"You are to be congratulated for your promising beginning", R. N. Talbot of Calgary, Executive Director of the Society's Alberta Division said.

"Your share of Alberta's goal of $200,000 is vitally important. Every contribution even as little as a dime, is helpful. Ten cents buys a test tube. Twenty dollars will support a research bed for one day. Five-hundred dollars will buy a special microscope and $16,000 will equip an isotope laboratory.

Of every dollar contributed to the Canadian Cancer Society in 1952, 41 cents went to a national research programme, 22 cents was used in the Society's public education programme through films, publications, exhibits etc., 26 cents went to welfare services in behalf of cancer sufferers, while 11 cents was devoted to planning, supervision and administration services.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Not Yet

"Have you any children, Mr. Smith?"

"Yes—three."

"Do they live at home with you?"

"Not one of them—they are not married yet."

Perfect

Detective—And do you know what we policemen mean by a perfect crime?

Pretty—Sure If you stole a kiss that would be perfect.

Which?

Shopper—I wish to buy a fashionable dress.

Clerk—Yes, madam; will you have it too tight or too short, or both?

Comeback

"Say, you're the limit. If I mailed a letter addressed to the 'dumbest man in Boston', I know who they'd deliver it to."

"So do I; they'd return it to the sender."

Mr. Knagg—I never want what isn't my own, and I have a right to my own when I want it.

His Wife—Not when it's your own way that you want.

Quite Appropriate

Tombstone Dealer (after several futile suggestions) — How would just a simple "Gone Home" do for an inscription?

The Widow—I guess that will be all right. It was always the last place he ever thought of going.

Probably Would

Boss (handing back two letters to stenog.): "It would perhaps be better, Miss Smith, if you signed the letters to Dear Jack and Darling Harold yourself."

He Snored

First Traveler—You woke me out of a sound sleep.

Second Traveler—I had to. The sound was too loud.

Enduring

Mrs. Shortly was discussing the latest fashions with a caller.

"Did you say your husband was fond of those clinging gowns?"

"Yes. He likes one to cling to me for about three years."

And Used So Little

"You know women's minds are cleaner than men's."

"They should be, they're changed more often."

CANADA ACCEPTS I.W.A. PRICE WHEAT AT $2.05 A BUSHEL

WASHINGTON — The majority of the 46 participating countries settled on the terms of the new International Wheat Agreement. The countries include the importing and exporting countries.

Britain, the major importer, did not accept the terms which call for a base price of $2.05 a bushel. Canada accepted the price.

The delegate of Britain said that his country was not prepared to accept a price above $2.00.

The present price, effective until July 31, is $1.80.

The governments of the participating countries must ratify the agreement before it can become effective.

The agreement seeks to stabilize world trade in the grain by means of export and import quotas and by a system of maximum and minimum prices.

That is, major exporting countries—which are Canada, U.S., Australia and France—agree to sell specified quantities of wheat to importing countries at fixed prices.

Fourteen days are granted to the participating countries to sign the new pact. Negotiators held the hope that Britain would by that time accept the new figure.

The present agreement quotas total 508,000,000 bushels, or slightly more than half of the wheat moving in international trade. Britain's quota is some 177,000,000 bushels. The failure of Britain to join in would of course reduce the amount of grain shipped under the agreement considerably.

Participating countries were given to July 15 to ratify the agreement which is scheduled to go into effect on Aug. 1 this year.

The new agreement will become effective when ratified by 80 per cent of the exporting countries and 70 per cent of the importing. Delegates from all of the exporting countries signified their approval and more than 70 per cent of the delegates from the importing nations.

The new proposal would set a minimum price for wheat moving under its terms for $1.55 compared with the present minimum of $1.20.

Export and import quotas cannot be decided upon until it is determined which countries ratify the pact.

FUA PRESIDENT DISSATISFIED

Henry Young of Millet, president of the Farmers Union of Alberta, said Thursday that the proposed $1.55-a-bushel floor price under a new international wheat agreement is "not satisfactory" to his organization.

Last year Canada was exceeded in gold production only by South Africa and Russia.

New Service-Centre Offers Many New Improvements With Modern Facilities

MUNDARE—After building up a successful business on the Keystone of service, Diduch Motors have continued their efforts to provide motorists with the best service possible by installing in their building, test equipment, tools and parts, which will enable them to undertake all forms of repairs.

A credit to the builders, both in design and construction, the new building is well-lit, well-heated and well-built. Most of the work was done by staff members.

The showroom is pleasantly decorated with a striking ceiling pattern of blue and white, with counter tops in a smart blending red.

The counter space separates the Parts-bays from the display floor.

The showroom measures a full thirty-three by forty-eight feet providing ample space for the display of new model cars, trucks and farm machinery.

Above the showroom, is an added space for an extensive store of parts for the products handled by this progressive firm.

Reflecting the importance Diduch Motors attach to rendering the finest in mechanical service is the design and facilities of their repair shop. Lighting is exceptional, with a generous amount of window space on three sides, supplemented by strategically located electrical fixtures to ensure ample brightness for twilight and night work.

Provision has been made for a ventilation system to remove exhaust fumes from not only the whole shop but from the front-end of the building as well. A heating system provides heat for the whole building.

A drainage system has been installed to make it easy to keep the interior of the shop clean and free of traffic mud, dripping oil and carry away water from the washing racks.

The equipment provided for mechanical repairs is the most modern obtainable. The front-end pit has all the test equipment and tools needed for wheel and headlight alignment which eliminates all guess-work from this exacting type of maintenance.

Under-chassis work is speeded up with a twin-post hoist and a chain hoist.

Access to the shop is extremely easy for the doors are easy operating over-head style providing generous space for cars and trucks. One set of doors is a full fourteen and a half feet high, high enough to admit self-propelled combines.

When designing, building, and equipping their new garage, Diduch Motors left nothing out to improve the efficiency or the comfort of their staff—they included everything necessary to give motorists, truckers and farm machinery operators, service unsurpassed. Diduch Motors are to be commended for the fine job they did in bringing to Mundare and district a service-centre second to none in the province.

Carl Berg Addresses Fort Lions Club

FORT SASKATCHEWAN—The Men's Club of Fort Saskatchewan held their last meeting of the winter season in the basement hall of the United Church. About 35 members sat down to a sumptuous dinner prepared by stewards Stuart Palmer and Charles Galloway.

Some time later President Percy Galloway introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Carl Berg of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

Mr. Berg traced the history of the trade union movement in Canada from its inception to the present day. He stated that all matters of public concern had to come before the eye of public opinion before they were actually placed on the Statute Book and that labor legislation had contributed very largely to the high standard of living.

Very soon he expected to be on his way to Geneva, Switzerland, to attend the International Labor Organization as one of Canada's delegates, where he would meet with labor representatives from all parts of the world, including a few from behind the Iron Curtain. The discussions at Geneva would tend to co-ordinate labor relations internationally. Finally he stated that at the conclusion of the convention at Geneva he would leave for Stockholm as a delegate to a similar convention in Sweden. At the conclusion of his address those present tendered Mr. Berg a hearty vote of thanks.

"Cook with Propane—the Finest and Cleanest Fuel"

Government of the Province of Alberta Department of Agriculture FIELD CROPS BRANCH

To: Municipal District Secretaries,
Pest Control Officers,
Field Supervisors,
District Agriculturists.

DEAR SIR:

It is noted that some Municipal Councils in their efforts to control predatory animals to prevent the spread of rabies have considered or may have approved the payment of a bounty for such purposes. While there may be arguments both in favor and against such a procedure this Department does not approve of bounties for the following reasons:

(1) For public health reasons the Alberta Central Rabies Control Committee does not recommend bounty payments. This same opinion is held by the expert panel on rabies of the World Health Organization.

To provide accurate proof of kill the hide of the animal is needed for evidence. This is a dangerous procedure because in so doing anyone handling the dead carcass of a diseased animal is exposing himself to contracting rabies. Several persons have already been treated in Northern Alberta due to skinning diseased predatory animals. One trapper is partially paralyzed from such infection. Bounties deliberately expose many people to this hazard.

(2) Administration of payments of bounties presents a real problem.

The Department of Agriculture has distributed over 25,000 "cyanide shells" and has approved the use of "strychnine pellets" in accordance with regulations established under the Agricultural Pests Act. These pellets are being supplied to Municipal Districts for distribution and use by Pest Control Officers. The intensified predatory animal control program has already depopulated predatory animals in many Municipal Districts, and there is every evidence of it being equally effective in all areas.

Bounties paid by Municipal Districts could conceivably be for animals taken in any part of the Province and substantial funds might be necessary to meet obligations.

(3) The necessity for control of predatory animals is of significant importance for all residents to participate without a bounty inducement.

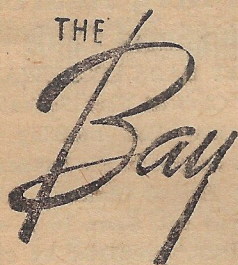

(4) Bounties have not proven to be effective measures in depopulating predatory animals in settled areas.

Officials of this Department, and we are equally sure Municipal Councillors, are being constantly urged to pay bounties. Accordingly we believe that Municipal Districts will be interested in the attitude of this Department with respect to this problem.

Yours very truly,

A. M. WILSON,

Field Crops Commissioner.
